

The New School Year is Coming!

The summer will be over soon.

When the summer is over, I will go to school.

A bus will come to my house in the morning to take me to school.

Some friends from my school will be on the bus with me. The bus monitor will make sure I am safe.

When I get to school, I will go to my classroom. I might be in a different classroom than I was in last year.

If I'm not sure where to go, I will ask a Morah.

I might have a different Morah than I had last year. I might have different Morahs during different times of the day.

My Morahs will get to know me better every day.

School days are long, but they are filled with fun. I will daven, learn, have circle time, and play together with my friends. I will learn how to do lots of new things.

If I need help with anything, I can ask my Morah.
I can ask my Morah for help when:

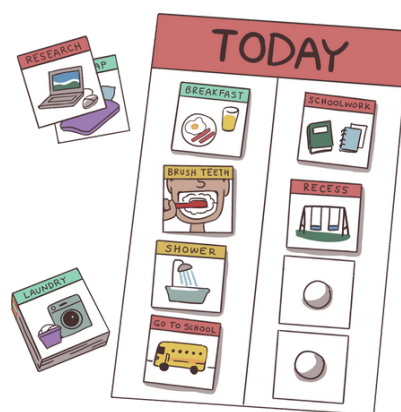

I am hungry or thirsty

I need the bathroom

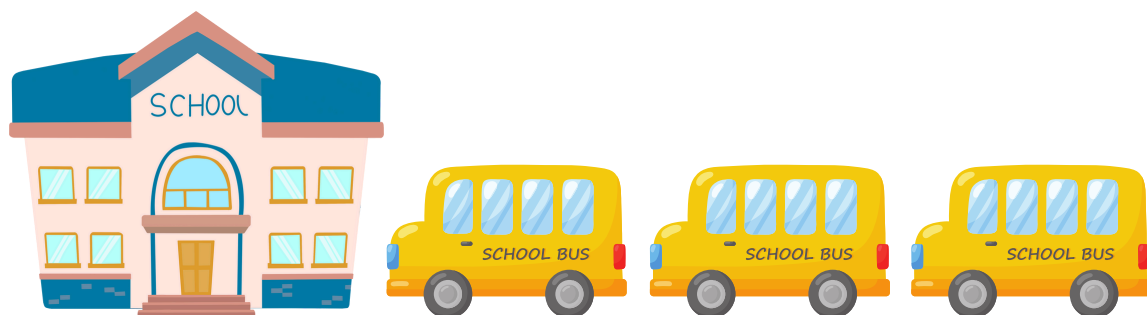

I need a short break
from the classroom

I want to know what the schedule is

When the school day is over, buses will come to school and I will get onto my bus.

If I'm not sure where to go, I will ask a Morah.

There will be other friends from school on the bus with me.

The bus will take each friend home to their family. The bus will take me back home to my family, too.

When it's my stop, the bus monitor will make sure I get safely from the bus to my house.

At home, I will eat supper and get ready for bed.

In the morning, I will go to school again!
